

Get Rich or Get an Education

By: Taft Mohair

Which is more important?

Did you know that society places more value on getting an education than getting rich? Let's do a test! If you were in your last semester of college with two months until graduation and you received an invite from your ideal Wealth Coach (i.e. Bill Gates, Warren Buffet, Jerry Clark, Brian Tracy) to spend the next ninety days with him or her at their home for intensive day by day training on how to create wealth, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Society does not understand!

Most of society would decide to complete their degree! Let's think about this! The goal of college is to teach the necessary principles so that the student may become productive and earn a significant income. The goal of a wealth coach is to teach the student the Principles of Wealth Creation so that he or she produces more in less time! Therefore society is either COMPLETELY ignorant of the immense value of a Wealth or Success Coach or society desires that we only earn a significant income versus earning wealth. My guess is society just does not understand the value in wealth coaches or the importance of financial literacy!

DO NOT listen to Society!

Society in the form of high schools, teachers, colleges, professors and even well meaning parents give us advice about life, success and making money that in some cases should be ignored. We hear comments such as:

Go to school and get a good job! Response: Good and job don't go in the same sentence!

Work hard on your job so that you can move up! Response: Working harder on you produces greater results!

Money can't buy you love! Response: Broke can't buy you anything!

Starting your own business is risky! Response: Getting laid off is risky!

What if getting rich does not work?! Response: What if it does work then I will not have to work!

If you want to be successful go to college! Response: There are many homeless people who have college degrees!

The truth of the matter is we should be careful who we take advice from. Think about this:

If I am divorced can I tell you how to have a great marriage? If I am over weight can I tell you how to lead a healthy lifestyle? Therefore someone earning $65,000 per year can't tell you how to earn $65,000 per month.

If you have goals of creating wealth or getting rich read the steps below and start executing them TODAY!

1. Research and pick a wealth creation vehicle! Network marketing, real estate, franchising, investing, are some of the areas you can start your research with! You will increase your probability for success by aligning your wealth creation vehicle with your career passions.
2. Develop your plan! Putting your plan, your goals, your dreams on paper increase your chances of accomplishing the goal by more than 40%.
3. Take MASSIVE Action today! And tomorrow, and the next day.....consistently!! The key is to do something daily and it will then become a habit!
4. Identify RICH mentors that will happily assist you at creating wealth! Your income is where it is because of the habits that you have. Learn the daily habits of RICH mentors and you will begin to attract the success you desire.
5. Form a Mastermind! Your Mastermind will encourage you and hold you accountable when the journey becomes challenging!
6. Devour books on a weekly basis that empower you in the core areas of your career focus!

Getting RICH always involves getting an education, but getting an education doesn't always involve getting RICH!
